Plaintiff,

vs.

J. S. WALTON, et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 12-cv-01198-JPG

MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

GILBERT, District Judge:

Plaintiff, an inmate in the United States Penitentiary in Marion (“Marion”), brings this action pro se for alleged violations of his constitutional rights by persons acting under the color of federal authority. See Bivens v. Six Unknown Named Agents, 403 U.S. 388 (1971). Plaintiff was previously granted leave to proceed in forma pauperis (Doc. 10), and he has tendered his initial partial filing fee as ordered. Plaintiff is serving a twenty-five-year sentence for communicating threats, soliciting others to threaten violence, and providing material support to terrorists. His claims arose during his incarceration in Marion’s communications management unit¹ (“CMU”).

Plaintiff filed his original complaint in this matter on November 21, 2012 (Doc. 1). While his complaint was under review, Plaintiff filed a number of other motions, including a motion for leave to amend the complaint (Doc. 17). The Court granted the motion on March 19, 2013 (Doc. 18). Plaintiff followed with a motion for reconsideration on March 29, 2013, in which he asked the Court to reinstate Defendant Basler as a party to this action (Doc. 20). As set forth herein, the Court is granting this motion as well. Accordingly, this threshold order addresses Plaintiff's amended complaint (Doc. 19), as modified by Plaintiff's motion for reconsideration (Doc. 20). Because the amended complaint supersedes the original complaint and renders it void, this threshold order addresses only those allegations set forth in Plaintiff's amended complaint (Doc. 19). See Flannery v. Recording Indus. Ass'n of Am., 354 F.3d 632, 638 n.1 (7th Cir. 2004) (citing Fuhrer v. Fuhrer, 292 F.2d 140, 144 (7th Cir. 1961)).

In the amended complaint, Plaintiff alleges that forty-one defendants infringed on his constitutional rights by "play[ing] a role in crafting or enforcing a ban on Islamic congregational prayer" in Marion's CMU (Doc. 19, p. 6). Plaintiff asserts claims against the United States, its attorney general,² numerous past³ and present⁴ Federal Bureau of Prisons ("BOP") officials, and numerous past⁵ and present⁶ Marion officials. He alleges that the ban on Islamic congregational prayer violates his rights under the First Amendment, the Fifth Amendment, and the Religious Freedom Restoration Act ("RFRA"), 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb et seq. (Doc. 19, pp. 2, 13-14). In addition, he raises conspiracy claims under 42 U.S.C. §§ 1985 and 1986, a state tort claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress, and a retaliation claim (Doc. 19, p. 2). Plaintiff seeks ² Eric H. Holder, Jr. is the current Attorney General of the United States and is a defendant in this action.

⁶ According to the amended complaint, the following defendants are current Marion officials: J.S. Walton (warden); Darren Sproul and Calvin Johnson (associate wardens); Robert Roloff (supervisory chaplain); Steven Cardona (CMU unit manager); Milton Neumann (CMU case manager); Henry Rivas (CMU intelligence research specialist); Jeffrey Baney (executive assistant/administrative remedy coordinator); G. Fozzard, Webb, T. Smith, Basler, Hampton, Falimer, Lennon, and H. Clark (correctional officers); Lockridge, K. Wells, Malcolm, and Van Dyver (lieutenants); and April Cruitt, T. Capaldo, Stephen Colt, J. Simmons, and Leslie Smith (intelligence analysts).

declaratory relief, as well as a preliminary and permanent injunction requiring Defendants to allow Muslims within the CMU to engage in group prayer five times each day (Doc. 19, p. 14). He seeks compensatory and punitive damages.

Specifically, Plaintiff alleges that he is a Muslim and is currently housed in Marion's CMU (Doc. 19, pp. 2, 9). The CMU houses inmates who are "deemed to require additional monitoring of their communication" (Doc. 19, p. 7). The unit is subject to constant audio and video surveillance (Doc. 19, p. 8). Although inmates are housed in individual cells, they are allowed out each day from 5:45 a.m. until 9:45 p.m.⁷ While out of their cells, prisoners in the CMU may engage in a variety of group activities, which include watching television, playing cards, playing sports, and conversing. They can even discuss and defend criminal behavior and radical groups, like the Taliban or Al-Qaeda (Doc. 19, p. 7).

As an adherent to the Hanbali school of Islam, Plaintiff believes that he is required to pray five times each day for approximately five minutes each time (Doc. 19, p. 8). Plaintiff also sincerely believes that these prayers must be offered in congregation with other Muslims (Doc. 19, pp. 7-8). According to current BOP policy,⁸ Islamic group prayer in the CMU is effectively prohibited, with the exception of two hours each Friday and throughout the Islamic holy month of Ramadan⁹ (Doc. 19, pp. 7, 9, 11).

⁸ Plaintiff does not quote, summarize, or paraphrase the text of the policy at issue in the amended complaint or any of the attached exhibits. Although several different policies are mentioned and even quoted by BOP employees in administrative appeals paperwork that is attached to the amended complaint, Plaintiff does not cite the policies, refer to the exhibits, or incorporate them into the allegations of the amended complaint. It is therefore unclear what policy Plaintiff contests or who created the policy.

Defendants enforce the ban by issuing incident reports to Muslims under two sets of circumstances (Doc. 19, p. 10). When Defendants actually catch Muslims engaged in group prayer, they issue incident reports for participation in an “unauthorized gathering.” When Defendants strongly suspect that Muslims are engaging in group prayer but cannot prove it, they issue incident reports for being in an “unauthorized location.”

The only inmates who have been given incident reports for being in “unauthorized gatherings” are Muslims who are caught praying together or suspected of doing so (Doc. 19, p. 10). The ban does not apply to CMU prisoners of other faith groups, such as Jews or Christians. Non-Muslim CMU inmates regularly gather in groups to pray together or to hold religious services with one another.

The ban imposed by Defendants substantially burdens Plaintiff’s sincerely held religious beliefs and practices (Doc. 19, p. 13). Plaintiff was disciplined on four separate occasions for engaging in congregate prayer with other Muslims or for being suspected of this activity (Doc. 19, p. 11). Twice, he was written incident reports for being in an “unauthorized gathering.” On two other occasions, he was issued incident reports for both rule violations but was ultimately found guilty only of being in an “unauthorized location” due to a lack of evidence that he was actually praying in a group.

Plaintiff sets forth specific allegations against only three of the forty-one defendants, including Defendants Roloff, Cardona, and Neumann. Plaintiff alleges that Defendant Roloff allows Jewish inmates to pray in congregation (Doc. 19, p. 10). Plaintiff alleges that Defendants Cardona and Neumann threatened him with permanent placement in isolation if he sent a religious email he was composing and then moved him to the worst cell in the unit after suspecting him of participating in group prayer (Doc. 19, pp. 12-13). Plaintiff prepared an email offering a “dramatic narrative of his efforts to pray in a group” and stored it in his “drafts” folder. On or around June 5, 2012, Defendants Cardona and Neumann called Plaintiff into their office and threatened him with permanent placement in isolation if he sent the email. In fear of retaliation, Plaintiff agreed to delete the email. After Defendant Cardona observed Plaintiff praying in his cell at the same time other Muslims were doing the same, Defendant Cardona moved Plaintiff from his cell near other Muslims to “arguably the worst cell in the entire unit,” i.e., the one that was closest to the guard’s office (Doc. 19, p. 13).

Plaintiff alleges that the ban on group prayer substantially burdens his religious practices. It is not reasonably related to a neutral government interest, nor would lifting the ban seriously harm prison operations. Plaintiff has no alternative means of exercising his sincerely held religious beliefs. The ban does not represent the least restrictive means of furthering a compelling government interest. It is the result of a conspiracy by Defendants to deprive Plaintiff of his rights (Doc. 19, p. 14). Plaintiff alleges that, as such, the ban violates the Free Exercise Clause and Establishment Clause of the First Amendment. It violates RFRA. It also violates his equal protection rights under the Fifth Amendment. He raises a conspiracy claim, a retaliation claim, and a state law tort claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress.

Merits Review Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915A

Under 28 U.S.C. § 1915A, the Court is required to conduct a prompt threshold review of the complaint. Accepting Plaintiff’s allegations as true, the Court finds that Plaintiff has articulated cognizable federal claims under the First Amendment (Count 1) and RFRA (Count 2) and a state tort claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress (Count 3) against Defendants Holder, Samuels, Jr., and Walton for unlawfully restricting Plaintiff’s right to engage in group prayer with other Muslims.¹⁰ Plaintiff has also asserted a colorable equal protection claim under the Fifth Amendment (Count 4) against Defendants Holder, Samuels, Walton, and Roloff. Finally, Plaintiff has articulated an actionable retaliation claim against Defendants Cardona and Neumann (Count 5).

These claims fail against all other defendants. Because vicarious liability is inapplicable to Bivens actions, an individual cannot be held liable unless the individual caused or participated in an alleged constitutional deprivation. Sheik-Abdi v. McClellan, 37 F.3d 1240, 1240 (7th Cir. 1994); Rascon v. Hardiman, 803 F.2d 269, 273 (7th Cir. 1986). Plaintiff “must plead that each Government-official defendant, through the official’s own actions, has violated the Constitution.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 676 (2009). Plaintiff’s amended complaint contains very few allegations pertaining to specific actions taken by any particular defendants. Even construing the amended complaint liberally in Plaintiff’s favor as the Court must do at this stage, Plaintiff has simply failed to allege sufficient facts to demonstrate personal participation in a constitutional deprivation by any of the remaining defendants.

Plaintiff’s conspiracy claim against all defendants also fails (Count 6). Plaintiff asserts that Defendants, “[w]hether through crafting or enforcing the ban” on Muslim group prayer, “conspired to deprive Plaintiff of his rights” (Doc. 19, p. 14). Under the intracorporate conspiracy doctrine, a § 1985 conspiracy claim “cannot exist solely between members of the same entity.” Payton v. Rush Presbyterian-St. Luke’s Med. Ctr., 184 F.3d 623, 632 (7th Cir. 1999). Plaintiff has named as defendants members of the same entity, the BOP. The BOP is an agency of the United States Department of Justice, headed by Defendant Holder. Therefore, the defendants cannot be sued for conspiracy under §§ 1985 or 1986. See id. See also Wright v. Ill.

¹⁰ Because Plaintiff is challenging the policy that restricts his ability to engage in group prayer with other Muslims, the Court is allowing him to proceed against those defendants who are policy makers and/or those defendants who will carry out the terms of any injunction issued in this matter.

Dep't of Children and Family Servs., 40 F.3d 1492, 1508 (7th Cir. 1994).¹¹ Accordingly, Plaintiff's conspiracy claims under 42 U.S.C. §§ 1985 and 1986 shall be dismissed without prejudice.

According to the above holdings, the Court shall dismiss without prejudice Defendants Hollingsworth, Roal, Sproul, Johnson, Julian, Parent, Kelly, Rivas, Howard, Baney, Fozzard, Webb, T. Smith, Basler, Hampton, Falimer, Lennon, Clark, Lockridge, Wells, Malcolm, Van Dyver, Cruitt, Capaldo, Colt, Simmons, L. Smith, Nalley, Nelson, Laird, Harrison, Lappin, Kane, Dodrill, and the United States without prejudice. Plaintiff failed to allege sufficient facts establishing that these defendants had any personal involvement in Plaintiff's constitutional deprivations.

Pending Motions

Plaintiff's motion for appointment of counsel (Doc. 4) shall be REFERRED to United States Magistrate Judge Philip M. Frazier for further consideration.

Plaintiff's motions for preliminary and permanent injunctive relief (Docs. 1, 2, 16, 21) shall also be REFERRED to United States Magistrate Judge Frazier for prompt consideration.

Plaintiff's motion to order court to require BOP to provide current addresses of all defendants to effect proper service on them (Doc. 9) is DENIED.

Plaintiff's motion for miscellaneous relief (Doc. 15), in which Plaintiff asks the Court to take judicial notice of the recent decision in Lindh v. Warden, Civil No. 09-215-JMS, 2013 WL 139699 (S.D. Ind. Jan. 11, 2013), is GRANTED. The Court has reviewed this decision and is taking it under consideration in the context of this matter.

Plaintiff's motion for reconsideration (Doc. 20), in which he seeks to reinstate Defendant

¹¹ While Wright focused on corporate managers, nothing in its reasoning precludes application of this doctrine to supervisors and subordinates in a government entity, as long as all are working in the entity's interest. Id. at 633.

Basler as a party to this action, is GRANTED. However, as noted above, Defendant Basler shall be dismissed from the action without prejudice.

Plaintiff's motion for copy of the docket sheet (Doc. 23) is GRANTED. As a general rule, the District Clerk will mail paper copies of any document to a party only upon prepayment of the required fee. According to 28 U.S.C. § 1914(b), "[t]he clerk shall collect from the parties such additional fees only as are prescribed by the Judicial Conference of the United States." The Judicial Conference Schedule of Fees section (4) provides that a fee of $.50 per page shall apply for reproducing any record or paper. The Clerk is DIRECTED to mail Plaintiff a copy of the docket sheet in this case. Should Plaintiff desire copies of any documents from the court file, he should request the document(s) by number and send the required prepayment.
